

Get the Habit of Saving a Part of Your Income

In sizing up the other fellow, how much influence does his bank roll have upon your estimate of him?

Fact is, a man's size is often measured in dollars, and if you doubt this, try to think of just one big man who is broke, penniless—try it.

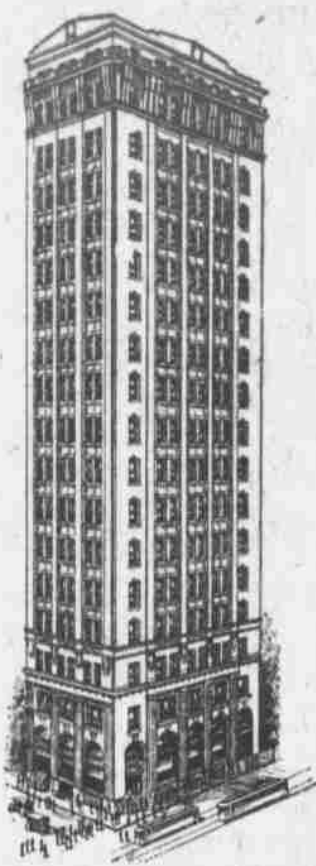

The beauty about this system of financial measurement is that you can always grow—you can grow in importance to yourself, family and community, grow in self-respect, self-reliance, prestige and wealth by systematically following the principle of saving.

What you have NOW matters little—it's what you'll have later on that counts. The great question is this, "Are you saving?" Answer that, and if you are NOT, come right straight to this bank and open an account. A cordial welcome awaits you.

MAUD MOORE WHO ASSERTS SHE KILLED HARTH TO SAVE HONOR

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 12. (Sp.)—The preliminary examination of Maud Moore, charged with the murder of LeRoy Harth, prominent auto dealer and clubman of this city, was resumed this morning at 9 o'clock and is expected to last throughout the day.

Miss Moore is still in the city jail in default of bond.

The evidence at the first session of the hearing Thursday was not of a serious nature nor did the state attempt to question Miss Moore's character.

The testimony of J. M. Jett, upon whose porch Harth died, of Martin Hunter, the young man who took Miss Moore to the Spring River cave the morning after the killing, and of J. W. Hangsterfer was regarded as vital.

Five other witnesses, all for the prosecution, were examined, but their evidence was not material. Jett told of Harth sitting upon the porch of the witness, where he lay dying, that Miss Moore shot him, and that he "guessed" she meant to rob him. Hangsterfer testified to Harth meeting Miss Moore.

Martin Hunter, who is now under arrest as being an accessory to the murder before and after the fact, was the next witness, and it was during his testimony that the state made its first effort in its apparent move to prove a conspiracy between he and Miss Moore.

CITY PEOPLE MAY DODGE H. C. L. ON FARM PRODUCTS

Free Open Air Market To Be Established Under Proposed Ordinance Which Will Be Backed by City Club.

The people of Memphis may get a chance to dodge the high cost of living on some of the necessities of life before long, even if some of them have to go without new clothes or shoes.

Writers on economic subjects have pointed out for years that the cause of the high prices of vegetables, fruits, and similar products of the farms, lies in the cost of distribution, and the profits that go to from one to half a dozen middle men who handle them before they reach the consumer. The remedy, therefore, lies in getting the city consumer and the farm producer together.

The City club will discuss Saturday the proposed ordinance for the establishment of an open air market, through which the producers from the farms may get into touch with the consumers in the city, to the mutual benefit of both.

No other plan promises to reduce the high cost of living so speedily as this, yet it has required more than six years' agitation, and the soaring of the price of vegetables and other farm products at a point beyond the reach of the average family, to secure even the drafting of an ordinance setting aside a definite section of the city for the proposed market, and fixing rules under which the farmers and truck growers may offer their wares for sale.

The ordinance, which was drawn by John W. Farley, at the instance of the community planning committee of the City club, and on the west side of Third street, between Washington and Adams, spaces to be occupied by wagons or trucks to be to be under the orders of the commissioner of public utilities, grounds and buildings.

In the ordinance market days are designated as each Tuesday and Thursday, during certain hours in the morning, and all day each Saturday until 5 p. m.

The proposed ordinance contains provisions to prevent the sale of farm products, except such products as may have been grown more than 20 miles from the city, and such trucks are to be located by themselves, not with the farm wagons or trucks.

There is little doubt that the proposed plan will be approved by the City club, and the members of the city administration have indicated that if it is so indicated it will be passed.

The ordinance will affect in no way the old Beale avenue market, where the rules prohibit the retail sale of farm products by producers, in order to protect the retailers of stalls from such competition. The open air market will permit the sale of almost everything in the way of vegetables, fruit, or other farm products, but milk, cream and fresh meat may not be sold.

Handsome New Fabrics

Lend Distinction To the Styles in Men's Clothes For Fall and Winter Wear

RADICALLY different designing and tailoring details give an unusually large variety of models and fabrics to choose from. The two and three-button coats are very much in evidence—the belted styles share equal prominence in these displays of new arrivals.

Then, too, the matter of price—ours is a standardized selling policy. We hold no so-called "sales." We operate on a legitimate profit—one price every day in the year. No juggling of values—no superficial additions to values when the season starts—then a "hurry-up" sale to unload because the prices were too high. We want the value; that's why there is but one price.

Correct Price Stamped on every sole

"I demand for myself absolute comfort in shoes which are at the same time smart looking, well fitting and long wearing, and I can't expect any other man to demand less."

Chas. D. Emerson

Why you save over $3.00 per pair when you buy Emerson Shoes

THE average cost of the leather linings, etc., from which the shoes in our stores are made has advanced over $3.00 per pair.

You make this saving because a fair and square retail price is branded in the process of manufacture on the soles of every pair of Emerson shoes in our stores, based on what the materials cost us, not the market value today.

I have always given my customers any saving I can make for them as a result of my long experience in knowing when to buy leather, because I prefer to sell many shoes at a small profit rather than a few shoes at a large profit.

As a result of this policy Emerson Sales have increased over 600% in the last four years.

Never before have we shown so many smart up-to-date models—acknowledged the last word in fashionable footwear.

Look in our windows, inspect our shoes and judge for yourself. You will find just the model you want at the price you want to pay.
